

Expressing who I am in just a few paragraphs is a challenge, but I see it as an opportunity to reflect on my journey so far. I consider myself someone who is always ready and eager to help others. Being a social person, I genuinely enjoy connecting with people and building relationships with those around me. Growing up in a lively and diverse city, I was constantly exposed to a mix of cultures and perspectives, which have significantly shaped my identity and the way I approach life.

People often describe me as mature, independent, and driven to achieve my goals. I am naturally curious, always eager to explore new experiences and expand my knowledge. At the same time, I value feedback and see it as an essential part of self-improvement. Every day, I try to become the best version of myself.

One of my main goals is to become a more independent individual while acquiring knowledge that will be valuable throughout my life. I like to become a Front-End Developer with strong skills in UI and UX design, creating work that is recognized worldwide. In addition, I work on establishing my own company in the field of media design, where I can combine creativity with technology to make a lasting impact. On another front, I am excited to restart my competition's in my professional sports career in Show Jumping. My ultimate ambition in this sport is to compete at the Olympic Games and perform at the highest level.

In my free time, I dedicate myself to three main areas. First, spending quality time with my family is a top priority. Second, I am actively involved in organizing and promoting events, especially for international communities such as Proxy Student Association. I enjoy creating a welcoming environment where people from diverse backgrounds can connect and thrive. Lastly, I work part-time at Fontys ICT with ISSD. This role not only provides me with valuable experience but also allows me to help others, make new friends, and grow both personally and professionally. My time at ISSD has been especially rewarding, as I have learned many new skills that will benefit me in the future.

In conclusion, I am passionate about building meaningful connections and contributing positively to the world around me. I thrive on being part of different communities and embracing various cultures. At the same time, I am determined to continue my journey in Show Jumping, improving every day both as an athlete and as an individual. I am excited about the challenges ahead and eager to make a difference in all aspects of my life.
